Literacy Volunteers of America
Essex & Passaic Counties
www.lvaep.org
90 Broad Street, Bloomfield, NJ 07003 | (973) 566-6200 -- 195 Gregory Avenue, Passaic, NJ 07055 | (973) 470-0039

Writing Can Be Fun - Even Virtually!

Presenter, Todd Evans
Platform: Zoom
May 19, 2022, 11:00 am – 12:30 pm

Presenter's biography:

As the Director of Professional Development, I identify the professional development, learning, and support needs of literacy program managers, tutors and instructors, trainers, and students; and direct the development and delivery of professional development, learning, and support services to meet these needs. I have been with ProLiteracy since 1995. I have spent most of my time with ProLiteracy providing training to tutors, teachers, students, and program managers in a variety of subjects.

Workshop description:

When students write, they reinforce their reading skills and can dramatically increase their reading gains. However, many students either don't like to write or are afraid of writing. Come and learn a writing process and fun activities to get students to write. Activities are engaging in an in-person or virtual setting and are appropriate for all language levels.

- 5-step writing process
- focused writing
- Templates and masking
- Writing with pictures using Jamboards
- Expanding sentences
- I'm thinking of a word.